N MY FAMILY OWN SCARECROW FRIGHTENS WIDOW

> MRS. HART, OF HOLDEN, ME. FALLS UNDER SPELL OF FRANKENSTEIN.

WOMAN FEARS OWN CREATION

Had Often Threatened to Dismantle Figure Which Gradually Assumed Nature of a Ghost-Hopes He Will Freeze.

Holden, Me.-Copeland hill, in the western part of Holden, is the highest point of land in southern Penobscot county, and, owing to its commanding position, residents of Bangor drive to the top of the eminence on clear days for the purpose of seeing Mt. Katahdin, 90 miles to the north; Camden hills, 60 miles south, and the mountains back of Bar Harbor, 70 miles to the southeast.

The farm of Charles Hart occupies the very top of the hill, and Frankenstein is the most important personage on the entire farm.

Members of the Hart family say that Frankenstein has been photo graphed more than 500 times since last May, when he was dressed up and placed out to keep watch over a patch of early peas on a rocky knoll. By the time the peas were big enough to sell in the pod, Frankenstein was moved to the family strawberry field. and from there he went to another part of the field to stand guard over a potato field, coming back later to perform police duty among some early green corn. By this time the second crop of green peas was coming on and Frankenstein was moved again shifting from the pea patch to act as guardian for a field of stocked corn and ending up his season's work as custodian over a field of third-crop

He has been on duty day and night from the middle of May to the middle of October. He has worked without sleep and without food and without pay. The English sparrows have come and built nests in his pockets. The summer visitors have come and called him "cunning," and photographed him from many sides and in many conditions of weather, and Frankenstein has not minded his notoriety in the

It Grew Into the Nature of a Ghost. Frankenstein abodes, is responsible for the origin of Frankenstein and his name. She constructed him from some brilliant and threadbare garments that were about the house and then placed a mask over his face to prevent him from "tanning," as she declared.

Having created the image for the purpose of scaring the crows away the creation looked so uncanny and stupid that Mrs. Hart grew afraid of him, and though she often threatened to dismantle her creation, she gradually fell under the spell of the ob session and permitted the object of her fear to remain on earth until it grew into the nature of a ghost. Being an intelligent woman who had read many books, Mrs. Hart named the image Frankenstein.

She proposes to let Frankenstein remain out in the cold field all winter. hoping thereby to freeze the "scare' out of him.

Cow Gets on a Jag.

South Norwalk, Conn.-Joseph Ball's cow, usually a kindly and docile creature, got into his orchard and gorged on eider apples, which strewed the autumn dying grass.

The apple juice must have ferment ed in the cow's midst, for when Ball tried to drive her from the orchard she pursued him and butted his back so hard that she injured his spinal cord. Ball was taken to the Norwalk hospital suffering from paralysis of the lower limbs. After cavorting around for an hour, the cow recovered her accustomed

SYSTEM IN HOUSEHOLD WORK

Forethought Will Do Away With Much Work and Worry.

The woman who does her own work day in and day out, and rushes to avoid hurry and come to the table in a proper state of mind and body to partake of the meal which she has prepared should allow one hour for preparing dinner and three-quarters of an hour for the other meals of the day, according to Janet M. Hill, an authority on domestic matters. Then without undue haste (sometimes, not always) the dishes used in preparing the meal can be washed while the meal is being prepared and the after-meal work need not be dreaded.

Know what you are going to do before you enter the kitchen, then go go straight to the mark without dallying. Fuel and precious time are often wasted while one is trying to make up her mind what she will do. Then, worn out in trying to find something easy to make, calling for nothing tangible in the way of ingredients and little cooking, the matter is given up and the grocer is telephoned to bring something in the inevitable paper bag. There is no satisfaction in this kind of housekeeping. Housekeeping is a business to be conducted in summer and in winter. To be always equal to it take a holiday often and give the same to those in your employ. Do not stagnate. Initiate new projects in your business. Rejoice in it. Avoid overwork and overheat, but keep up

MAKES A GOOD COMBINATION. Prunes and Oranges for Jam Are Highly Recommended.

Prunes and oranges make a good combination for jam. Get the large sized prunes, if possible, wash them thoroughly in both hot and cold water, then cut from the pit. Put the fruit through a meat chopper. To each cupful of chopped prunes take a cupful of cut oranges.

Put in the grated rind of one-half of the oranges used, then peel and cut them in small pieces. Good California prunes will sweeten themselves, but with the orange they will require some sugar. A large tablespoonful of sugar to each cupful of orange will be sufficient if the oranges are fairly sweet ones. To two cupfuls of prunes add one-half cupful of water. Stir all well together and stand on the back of the range in a tightly covered kettle or crock.

Do not let it get too hot, but it may remain at a simmering heat half a day or longer with frequent stirrings and mashings, when it will be ready to pack in the jars.

A Simple Luncheon.

A luncheon may begin with beef or chicken bouillon, hot or cold, or with clam or oyster soup. Or this course may be omitted and a macedoine of fruit or halved grapefruit or melon may be served instead. If the mace doine is served it may be in cocktail or lemonade glasses, the fruit cut into small squares and very cold. This may be on the table when the guests come into the room. For the second course, if fish is to be served, creamed fish au gratin is excellent, since this may stand for some time after cooking without injury to its excellence. Fish may be omitted if one prefers and creamed chicken au gratin come next, or chicken served in some other way, or chops. This would be also the time to bring the chafing dish into service and to cook it in oysters, or fish, or meat, or cheese, or eggs, or any of the other dainties known to the chafing-dish expert.-Harper's Bazar.

Peach Tapioca.

Soak one cup of tapioca over night in a quart of water. In the morning put taploca and the water it was soaked in and cook one hour in the double boiler. Then take from stove and add one-half teaspoon of salt, three-fourths cup of sugar and juice from one can of peaches and stir thoroughly. Then into a pudding dish pour a layer of this taploca, then lay in the peaches and pour the rest of the tapioca over them, and bake in a moderate oven one hour. Eat with whipped cream.

Latest Thing in Book Holders. A pleasing gift is made by covering an ordinary japanned tin book holder with outing flannel and then fitting light weight tapestry or brocaded silk over it. Put on with the over and over stitch. Natural colored linen may be used if preferred and a monogram worked in brown silk on one side. A pair of these is sure to be appreciated by book lovers, and the cost is slight. The labor and time spent in making are triffing and the value is increased.

Ginger Puffs.

One cup light brown sugar, one egg, one teaspoonful of ginger, one cup molasses, two level teaspoonfuls of salaratus, dissolved in one cup of hot water, one cup melted lard, four cupfuls flour; mix in the order given and dsop by a tablespoon about two inches apart in a dripping pan. Bake in a quick oven.

HAD NO DOUBT OF HIS FATE.

Mr. Jerome Evidently Was Aware of His Wife's Culinary Ability.

Some weeks ago the wife of Judge Blank, of Pacific avenue, lost her cook, and since she had no other resource she rolled up her sleeves and for a week provided such meals as the judge had not enjoyed since those happy days when the Blanks did not keep a cook. The judge's delight was so great that by way of appreciative acknowledgment he presented Mrs. Blank with a beautiful ermine cloak. Quite naturally, the incident was a good deal noised about among the social acquaintances of the Blanks and a spirit of envious emulation was developed in certain quarters. It was in this mood that Mrs. Jerome recited the story to her husband. "What do I get, Jerry?" she asked, "if I will do the cooking for a week?" "Well," said Mr. Jerome, "at the end of a week, my dear, you'll get one of those long crepe veils."-San Francisco Argonaut.

Worst Case Doctors Ever Saw-Suffered Untold Misery-Perfect Cure by Cuticura Remedies.

"My son, who is now twenty-two yeears of age, when four months old began to have eczema on his face, spreading quite rapidly until he was nearly covered. The eczema was something terrible, and the doctors said it was the worst case they ever saw. At times his whole body and face were covered, all but his feet. I used many kinds of patent medicines, to no avail. A friend teased me to try Cuticura. At last I decided to try Cuticura when my boy was three years and four months old, having had eczema all that time and suffering untold misery. I began to use all three of the Cuticura Remedies. He was better in two months: in six months he was well. Mrs. R. L. Risley, Piermont, N. H., Oct. 24, 1905."

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the

At a men's cafe one night a young American-a barber-fell in with an Englishman. The latter was berating the Yankees for doing all manner of business in their shops and not following the better English plan of sticking to one branch.

The next day he swaggered into the barber shop to be shaved. The barber gave his face an extra good soaping and left him, at the same time seating himself to read.

The Englishman kept quiet for a few minutes, when, seeing his attendant reading, he blurted out: "Why don't you shave me, sir?"

"You will have to go up the street for your shave," quietly replied the barber. "We only lather here."
